Hazel Dawn's Superb Acting Captivates Capacity Houses

Miss Hazel Dawn never faced a more expectant audience than she did Monday evening at the Rex, when this brilliant and beautiful Utah girl appeared as Kate Shipley in the Paramount release, "One Of Our Girls," by Bronson Howard. The cosy little playhouse was literally packed, many being turned away from the box office. "One Of Our Girls," is just the play to portray the full excellence of Miss Dawn's versatile and superb acting.

As the radiant, unconventional free but not bold American girl in the Old World, her acting was perfect. We breathed easier when Miss Dawn appeared in Paris and although her behaviour was "raw" her breezy it was charming—she was, jolly charming, to the "fighting Britisher." In the opening scene a striking contrast is given of the old and new schools of femininity. Kate Shipley in the New World arises from her bed smiling, enjoys a "shower," (yes D-borah, of course behind the scenes) and takes a vigorous course of exercise with the Indian Clubs, etc., while over in a luxurious French bed-chamber her cousin in Julie, is waking up with a frown, scolds her maid, takes her breakfast in bed and is mighty disagreeable.

The picture is a delightful romance with plenty of real, unadulterated love—Kate isn't a least bit afraid of giving Capt. Gregory tangible evidence of her affection—some tragedy, a pinch of fighting, a lot of comedy, and good action. Of course Miss Dawn and Hal Clarendon made the hits of the night, especially the former.

Next Monday only, "The Man on the Box," the tremendously successful comedy-drama, will be shown.

Bob Baker Has Narrow Escape

Trooper Herbert Baker, of Raymond writing to his parents from "somewhere in France" says in part:

I had a narrow escape the last day we were in the trenches there was a big shell it weighed about a hundred pounds fell right on our dugout but luckily it never went off it fell the wrong way up so I think myself lucky for getting out safe. I have never been dry for the last two months and the trenches are up to our waist in water, and I have had no sleep for eight days because we were up all the time it was sure had some shells there were shells flying all directions and storms of bullets, but we can hold our own. Some days our big guns drop shells right into the German lines.

And They Lived Happy

(Chicago Record Herald)

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Monday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Burch, 6634 Newgard avenue, Rogers Park, when Miss Edna Marial Niven of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, was married to Charles Morris McLennan, recently of Winnipeg. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Niven of Lethbridge and her parents were among the early pioneers in the Canadian West. Mr. McLennan is the eldest son of Dr. W. E. McLennan, formerly pastor of Trinity Church of this city, now of the First Presbyterian Church of Buffalo. Mr. McLennan is business manager and associate editor of the American Sheep Breeder. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Odgers of the Rogers Park Methodist Church.

A pleasant social was given by the first ward M. I. A. Tuesday evening, a large number being present despite the extremely cold night.

Davies To Buy From U.S. Firms

Mr. Travor Davies, manager of the local departmental store of Grant and Davies, leaves shortly for an extended business trip to Minneapolis and Chicago, where he will place large orders with American firms. Mr. Davies believes he can make money both for his firm and its patrons by buying personally and importing direct. This will be Mr. Davies first visit to the Great Gateway to the West, and he will find shops on Michigan and Madison that will compare favorably with any on Regent or Oxford streets, London.

Grant and Davies closed their business year January 31st and during that period they will have done approximately eighty thousand dollars worth of business. This is indeed a splendid record and is due to judicious buying, careful management and systematic advertising.

Poultry Show Opens Tuesday

Are you going to make any entries in the Seed Fair and Poultry Show? These two important events take place next Tuesday and Wednesday. You ought to do your share in making them a success. A strong, united pull will do it.

Secretary Matkin is bending every effort, together with the president and directors, to make the show come up to those of previous years or even surpass them. This can be done despite the severe weather, Magrath has some of the finest birds in the west. This fact was demonstrated at the recent Poultry Show in Lethbridge.

If you have any good grain and well-bred poultry be sure and enter them. Monday is the day to make entries and Tuesday and Wednesday are the days to patronize the exhibition. Government speakers will discuss timely subjects at a public meeting Tuesday evening in the town hall. Be there.

Old Folks Made Happy: Jolly Time

The Old Folks' Committee royally entertained the aged people widows, widowers, orphans, and others at the Assembly Hall last Friday and although the weather was extremely cold there was a large attendance. The committee as usual labored diligently to make the annual function a success and they undoubtedly succeeded. Especially praiseworthy was the banquet served at high noon. Two long tables, the length of the church, were laid twice, which will give some idea of the number present. There was an abundance of everything on the boards and the service was par excellence.

A splendid program was rendered, concluding with a highly entertaining musical sketch under the direction of Mrs. Alston. The social concluded with a grand ball at night to which old and young were invited.

Big Campaign For Recruits

Southern Alberta has been divided into recruiting districts by the Citizens' Committee of Lethbridge and the campaign will extend to every town and village in boosting the 113th Kiltie battalion. D. H. Elton has this south line in charge and is planning an oratorical invasion at an early date.

Mayor O'Brien and Mayor Ririe have both been asked to lend their aid and influence which was readily assured.

This campaign into the rural districts is all right, but if the speech-making tour is not followed up by recruiting officers, who are prepared to stay in the district for a reasonable length of time and work enthusiastically for men, it is a question whether the scheme will have the desired result.

Referring to recruiting, it is somewhat mystifying to the government this week authorized the raising of two more battalions in Southern Alberta when considerable difficulty is being met in the raising of the one already underway, not to mention the 175th Battalion of Medicine Hat.

Preparedness Program to Occupy Much Time of Congress

Photos by American Press Association.

THE session of congress which convenes on Dec. 4 will devote much of its time to consideration of the administration's measure for preparedness. Secretary Daniels of the navy and Secretary Garrison of the army have mapped out their programs, and President Wilson has approved both. The big fight is now coming between those who favor large military appropriations and those who oppose. The constant promises are expected to support President Wilson, and many Democrats do not wish to oppose him. Complicated politically, the membership of the house will consist of 223 Democrats, 196 Republicans, 1 Progressive, 1 Independent, and 1 Socialist. The Democrats will have a majority over the Republicans of 34 and a majority over all of 22. It is a remarkable fact that more than three-fourths of the delegations in the house at the coming session will contain new blood, no fewer than 114 new members being elected. In addition will be nineteen members who did not serve in the last congress, but who, nevertheless, have had prior congressional experience. Probably no congress in recent years has had as few "wild" delegations—that is, delegations belonging exclusively to one political party—as the coming session. Only Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont and Wyoming have such delegations. In the last congress the Democrats, as a result of the landslide of 1912, had a two to one majority in the lower house of congress. The senate had a Democratic majority of ten. In the last session the Democrats made gains in senatorial membership which is bound to result in a transfer of political interest from that body to the house. In addition to a large influx of new blood, a number of tried veterans returned to the Republican ranks in the house, who will materially assist the small minority in the last congress in making its political record just prior to the opening of the national campaign. Among the old timers who will take seats in the house on the Republican side are John Q. Tamm and Elmer A. Smith of Connecticut; William W. Wilson, George E. Peck, Charles B. Felt

John A. Sterling, Joseph G. Cannon, William B. McKinley and William A. Blount of Illinois; George A. Loud of Michigan; L. C. Tamm of Missouri; C. C. Shallenbarger of Nebraska; Cyrus Sulway of New Hampshire; William A. Bristow of New York; Nicholas Longworth and D. A. Hollingsworth of Ohio; and B. K. Pugh and S. H. Miller of Pennsylvania.

New York state has followed the precedent set by Wisconsin two years ago and has sent to congress one Socialist, M. M. London. It will be recalled that Victor L. Berger, a national leader of the Socialist party and its head in the city of Milwaukee, served in the Sixty-second congress. The career of Mr. London in the house will be watched with as much interest as was that of Mr. Berger.

The close majority in the house of representatives will make necessary a complete rearrangement of the membership of all the committees in that body. In the last congress the Democratic party, by reason of their large majority, had practically two-thirds of the members on most of the big committees of the house. Those committees are proportioned among the parties according to their strength, and in the coming congress, if this rule is adhered to, the Democrats will not have more than one, or at the most two, members on any committee. Inasmuch as practically all of the chairmen of the house committees of importance come from the south, where Republican victories are few and far between, there will be practically no changes in chairmanships in that body.

Many Noted Athletes Killed In European War

Photos by American Press Association.

1.—Kenneth Powell. 2.—John Graham. 3.—Jean Boulton. 4.—R. Poullon. 5.—Anthony Wilding.

PRESENT day historians have made many prophecies concerning the effect of the war in Europe upon civilization. Ponderous documents have been written forecasting the number of years it will take to rebuild the cities, to restore the peaceful commerce of automobile days and to pay off the monstrous debts incurred by the belligerents. One phase of the grim, desperate struggle that has escaped notice in the more momentous questions of the day is the effect of the war upon athletics. The 11th Olympics were scheduled for Berlin, but it is doubtful whether there will be any for many years to come, and it is likely that international tournaments will be called off until the places in the ranks of the noted athletes killed or incapacitated can be filled. Johnny Pox, the Baltimore man killed at Loua recently, was probably the last known American athlete who served his life to the war and. He was one of the most brilliant football players that have been produced by Princeton, and his death brought sorrow to the hearts of thousands. Montague Nichols of Spartanburg, S. C., quarterback on the Navy football team in 1912 and 1913, was another well known American football player who has been lost. Like Pox, he lost his life in the British offensive at Loua. Wilding, the Australian tennis champion, Mirshin, the noted German tennis player, Chell, De Bouqueux, Dequeux and De Jousie

French tennis players of note, are gone. Only has lost Lord Annesley, W. A. Henderson and Julian Martin-Smith, and Miss Nellie Fraser, while acting as a trained nurse for the allies.

Lieutenant W. W. Halverson, the Olympic champion in 1912 in the 40 meter run and holder of the British 100 and 440 yards records, and captain of Oxford, who competed in the Olympics in Stockholm; Kenneth Powell, champion high hurdler, and James Duffy, the Canadian distance runner, are a few others.

J. H. Smith, the greatest distance runner France ever produced and holder of French records from 1500 to 5000 meters and in English distance running from two to eleven miles, was reported killed some time ago.

Germany, it is reported, lost the two greatest athletes the country ever had. One R. Bax, was the champion sprinter and record holder. The other, Hans Braun, the middle distance runner, was one of the world's greatest half miler.

Anthony F. Wilding was the last known tennis player to be killed in action. He was a member of the Australasian team which captured the Davis cup in 1914.

Another famous English athlete to meet Wilding's fate was Kenneth Powell, who was captain of the Cambridge team at the time Wilding attended the English university. Dr. Otto Nimbren, secretary of the German Lawn Tennis association and perhaps the most powerful figure in tennis in the Kaiser's domain, died in a hospital in Louvain, having been terribly wounded by a bursting shell.

The ranks of the leading French players were reduced by the deaths of Chell, secretary of the Lawn Tennis club of France, and De Bouqueux, a national ability, and De Bouqueux, who fell at the battle of the Marne.

Otto Frotschman and Oscar Krenner, who composed the German team which lost to Brooks and Wilding at Pittsburgh, are both prisoners of war having been captured by the English at Gibraltar.

Maurice Galigne, well known in this country, where he has won several tennis tournaments of prominence, is now in the field with the German infantry.

Lord Annesley, former amateur golf champion of Ireland, is perhaps the most prominent golfer to pay the extreme sacrifice for his country.

Constant W. A. Henderson, who put out Jerome D. Travers some years ago at Montevideo, was killed last February at the battle of the Marne.

Julian Martin-Smith, well known to many American golfers and a brother to Edward Martin-Smith, died of wounds received in the battle of the Marne.

Go-To-Church Sunday. The conference assemblies should be well worth your attendance.

Jack Frost is still on the job. This has been one of the worst winters in the history of the west.

Magrath ought to furnish plenty of recruits. It is no trick at all over there to get somebody to fight the council. For flies, occasionally, too—nothing tame about Magrath.

With the mercury hanging around 30 below and the depot about a half mile from the business section of town it is not a bit pleasant to hear a voice come back over the wires. "No, we can't accept telegraph messages over the phone any more." If he isn't a churchman he might say something that wouldn't look good in print. However, that is the new ruling. If you want to send a message you must stroll down to the depot and hand it to the agent personally.

O, for the good, old days when a cheery voice came back, "Sure old man, but shoot quick for we are both busy." Now, that line of talk is fine and we were both happy. Nobody looked up the law on the matter.

A man once built a scaffold on which to hang an enemy and he was hanged on it himself.

Premier Borden and Sir Wilfred Laurier, representing the two great political parties, and speaking advisedly for the whole Dominion, have emphatically declared that there will be NO CONSCRIPTION IN CANADA. That should suffice to allay the horror of those who fear the introduction of compulsory recruiting.

The U. F. A. recently concluded a most successful convention in Calgary. This body of farmers is a live wire organization, and does more actual and needed political and commercial reform work than any other body in the Province. Those fellows go into the convention hall like they go into the field—with sleeves rolled up ready for business.

And the government, railways banks, and everybody else, is sitting up and taking notice.

What the Leader would like to see is a live branch of the U. F. A. in every town along the south line. This body, Mr. Farmer, is a potential power in Alberta.

There is a movement on foot to establish a public library in this city. This is a matter that merits the support of every resident of Raymond and the liberal financial backing of the city council. Raymond needs a library and needs one bad.

During the past week the long arm of the law has been unusually active and in some instances stiff fines were inflicted by the justice. All the authorities ask is law and order and furthermore they insist on it, which is the proper thing.

Although a shortage of coal is reported from some points there has been no suffering in this city. The two local dealers, handling, Galt and Imperial coal, have never been long without a stock, while a substantial amount is hauled from the mines on the St. Mary's River.
